Henrik Cronqvist
Professor of Finance, University of Miami

Henrik Cronqvist is Professor of Finance at the University of Miami, where he conducts interdisciplinary research and teaches finance, entrepreneurship, and management. He is also the coordinator for the PhD program in finance.

Professor Cronqvist's research involves behavioral finance and corporate finance. His work has been published in top-journals in economics, including the American Economic Review and the Journal of Political Economy as well as in finance, including the Journal of Finance, the Journal of Financial Economics, and the Review of Financial Studies. He is often invited to give seminars at academic conferences and to executives and public policy makers around the world. Several of his research papers have been recognized with best paper awards at international conferences, and have been sponsored by competitive research grants. His work has been featured in BusinessWeek, the Economist, Financial Times, Harvard Business Review, the Wall Street Journal, and on CNBC and CNN.

Professor Cronqvist's current research projects involve understanding behaviors and biases of investors and corporate managers. His teaching projects involve "blended learning" in business education and developing a behavioral finance course.
